

What I Have Learned from Charlie

Murali Haran

Department of Statistics, Penn State University

Obvious Stuff

- ▶ Markov chain Monte Carlo ideas
- ▶ Computing principles, e.g. borrowing Knuth's idea of "separation of concerns"
- ▶ ...

How to be a Real Scholar

- ▶ Spend a lot of time thinking, and reading

How to be a Real Scholar

- ▶ Spend a lot of time thinking, and reading
- ▶ Read/think widely (be a polymath)

How to be a Real Scholar

- ▶ Spend a lot of time thinking, and reading
- ▶ Read/think widely (be a polymath)
  - ▶ theory
  - ▶ applications/science
  - ▶ philosophy

How to be a Real Scholar

- ▶ Spend a lot of time thinking, and reading
- ▶ Read/think widely (be a polymath)
  - ▶ theory
  - ▶ applications/science
  - ▶ philosophy
- ▶ Keep learning (don't get stuck in the past)

How to be a Real Scholar

- ▶ Spend a lot of time thinking, and reading
- ▶ Read/think widely (be a polymath)
  - ▶ theory
  - ▶ applications/science
  - ▶ philosophy
- ▶ Keep learning (don't get stuck in the past)
- ▶ Use mathematical insights to inform practice

Zen and the Art of Being Charlie

- ▶ Focus on the work (ignore the rat race)

Zen and the Art of Being Charlie

- ▶ Focus on the work (ignore the rat race)
- ▶ Find time for things you enjoy

Zen and the Art of Being Charlie

- ▶ Focus on the work (ignore the rat race)
- ▶ Find time for things you enjoy
- ▶ Be generous: help students and colleagues, no matter what their questions may be

Zen and the Art of Being Charlie

- ▶ Focus on the work (ignore the rat race)
- ▶ Find time for things you enjoy
- ▶ Be generous: help students and colleagues, no matter what their questions may be
- ▶ Don't every seem to be short on time

Zen and the Art of Being Charlie

- ▶ Focus on the work (ignore the rat race)
- ▶ Find time for things you enjoy
- ▶ Be generous: help students and colleagues, no matter what their questions may be
- ▶ Don't every seem to be short on time
- ▶ Tricks

Zen and the Art of Being Charlie

- ▶ Focus on the work (ignore the rat race)
- ▶ Find time for things you enjoy
- ▶ Be generous: help students and colleagues, no matter what their questions may be
- ▶ Don't every seem to be short on time
- ▶ Tricks
  - ▶ Don't respond to emails, ever

Zen and the Art of Being Charlie

- ▶ Focus on the work (ignore the rat race)
- ▶ Find time for things you enjoy
- ▶ Be generous: help students and colleagues, no matter what their questions may be
- ▶ Don't every seem to be short on time
- ▶ Tricks
  - ▶ Don't respond to emails, ever
  - ▶ Don't worry about appointments/thesis defenses/exams...

Rebel

- ▶ “Don’t let anyone plan your research career for you”
- ▶ Even if you end up reinventing something, you will probably think about things differently and do something cool(er).
So it’s okay to not know the literature very well...

Rebel

- ▶ “Don’t let anyone plan your research career for you”
- ▶ Even if you end up reinventing something, you will probably think about things differently and do something cool(er).
So it’s okay to not know the literature very well...
- ▶ Egalitarianism: Talk to very senior researchers in the same way you talk to grads:

Rebel

- ▶ “Don’t let anyone plan your research career for you”
- ▶ Even if you end up reinventing something, you will probably think about things differently and do something cool(er).
So it’s okay to not know the literature very well...
- ▶ Egalitarianism: Talk to very senior researchers in the same way you talk to grads:
  - ▶ What, you didn’t know that?

Rebel

- ▶ “Don’t let anyone plan your research career for you”
- ▶ Even if you end up reinventing something, you will probably think about things differently and do something cool(er).
So it’s okay to not know the literature very well...
- ▶ Egalitarianism: Talk to very senior researchers in the same way you talk to grads:
  - ▶ What, you didn’t know that?
  - ▶ Why would anybody do that?

Rebel

- ▶ “Don’t let anyone plan your research career for you”
- ▶ Even if you end up reinventing something, you will probably think about things differently and do something cool(er).
So it’s okay to not know the literature very well...
- ▶ Egalitarianism: Talk to very senior researchers in the same way you talk to grads:
  - ▶ What, you didn’t know that?
  - ▶ Why would anybody do that?
  - ▶ You are thinking about this all wrong!

Rebel

- ▶ “Don’t let anyone plan your research career for you”
- ▶ Even if you end up reinventing something, you will probably think about things differently and do something cool(er).
So it’s okay to not know the literature very well...
- ▶ Egalitarianism: Talk to very senior researchers in the same way you talk to grads:
  - ▶ What, you didn’t know that?
  - ▶ Why would anybody do that?
  - ▶ You are thinking about this all wrong!
  - ▶ That is The Wrong Thing to do

Be Different

- ▶ Spend a lot of time on the philosophy of science while still doing statistics research and teaching

Be Different

- ▶ Spend a lot of time on the philosophy of science while still doing statistics research and teaching
- ▶ Work on non-standard analysis

Be Different

- ▶ Spend a lot of time on the philosophy of science while still doing statistics research and teaching
- ▶ Work on non-standard analysis
- ▶ Use language unlike anyone else: “bozo” , “bogon-meter”
“woof”, ...

The Meaning of “Woof”

- ▶ From urbandictionary.com

The dozens is part of an African-American custom of verbal sparring, of “woofin”, intended to defuse conflict amicably, descended from an oral tradition rooted in West African cultures

The Meaning of “Woof”

- ▶ From urbandictionary.com

The dozens is part of an African-American custom of verbal sparring, of “woofin”, intended to defuse conflict amicably, descended from an oral tradition rooted in West African cultures

- ▶ Pronounced “wuff” (according to Charlie)
- ▶ Charlie’s usage
  - ▶ To “woof about” something: to discuss a topic

The Meaning of “Woof”

- ▶ From urbandictionary.com

The dozens is part of an African-American custom of verbal sparring, of “woofin”, intended to defuse conflict amicably, descended from an oral tradition rooted in West African cultures

- ▶ Pronounced “wuff” (according to Charlie)
- ▶ Charlie’s usage
  - ▶ To “woof about” something: to discuss a topic
  - ▶ To express surprise

The Meaning of “Woof”

- ▶ From urbandictionary.com

The dozens is part of an African-American custom of verbal sparring, of “woofin”, intended to defuse conflict amicably, descended from an oral tradition rooted in West African cultures

- ▶ Pronounced “wuff” (according to Charlie)
- ▶ Charlie’s usage
  - ▶ To “woof about” something: to discuss a topic
  - ▶ To express surprise
  - ▶ Sigh/dismay
  - ▶ ...

Wuff!! (Cheers!!)

